

Spring 2019 Seminars
Diagnostic Medicine and Pathobiology
Thursday, 3:30 p.m.

Mara Conference Center, 4th Floor Trotter Hall

JANUARY 24
Cytauxzoon felis transmission, diagnosis, treatment, and control

Mason Reichard
 Center for Veterinary Parasitology
 Oklahoma State University

JANUARY 31
Challenges for African swine fever vaccine development – “... perhaps the end of the beginning”

Daniel L. Rock
 Pathobiology, College of Veterinary Medicine
 University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

FEBRUARY 7

No Seminar

FEBRUARY 14
The Foreign Animal Disease Diagnostic Laboratory: Home to the North American Foot-and-Mouth Disease Vaccine Bank

Jamie L. Barnabei
 Foreign Animal Disease Diagnostic Laboratory
 NVSL, VS, APHIS, USDA, Orient Point, NY

FEBRUARY 21
Feeding our neighbors: Beef cattle production practices in a world full of wealth and poverty

Dan U. Thomson
 Diagnostic Medicine and Pathobiology
 Kansas State University

FEBRUARY 28
The 2018 USDA APHIS Smith-Kilborne Experience

Elsie McCoy
 DVM/PhD Student, Diagnostic Med/Pathobiology
 Kansas State University

MARCH 7
Designing a multiparameter flow cytometry experiment: Building blocks for increasing biological insights

David Morris
 BD (Becton, Dickinson and Co.)
 San Jose, CA

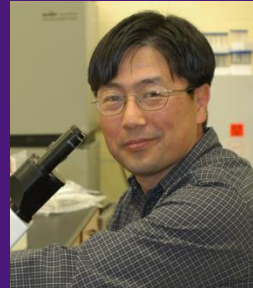

MARCH 14
SPRING BREAK
No Seminar

MARCH 21

No Seminar

MARCH 28
Proteases as therapeutic targets

Kyeong-Ok Chang
 Diagnostic Medicine and Pathobiology
 Kansas State University

APRIL 4
From the floor to the scope: dynamics of a diagnostic lab and its impact in research

Giselle Cino
 Diagnostic Medicine and Pathobiology
 Kansas State University

APRIL 11
A tale of two Legionella effectors: Contributions to pathogenesis and host response

Stephanie R. Shames
 Division of Biology
 Kansas State University

APRIL 18
Title to be announced

Kristin Michel
 Division of Biology
 Kansas State University

APRIL 25
Comprehensive analysis of human antibody responses to viral infections

Brandon J. Dekosky
 School of Pharmacy – Pharmaceutical Chemistry
 University of Kansas

MAY 2
Title to be announced

Natalia Cernicchiaro
 Diagnostic Medicine and Pathobiology
 Kansas State University

MAY 9
No Seminar

Thank you for attending the Seminar Series.
 Contact Dana Vanlandingham
 dlvanlan@vet.k-state.edu
 with suggestions for future seminar speakers.